Assemblyman Stuart Seeks Another Term in N. Y. Legislature

Hornell, May 3—"Inevitably a public official must succeed or fail by his own efforts alone; for ultimately he must submit his record to the acid test of public opinion", declared Assemblyman William M. Stuart, as he announced in a speech before the Lion's Club here today that he would be a candidate for reelection to the Assembly this fall.

Mr. Stuart, who has served with merit two terms in the Assembly continued, "I have faith to believe that my record for the two-one -year terms that I have served is sufficiently good to warrant my election to a two-year term."

The Assemblyman told members of the club that the Assembly of New York State Legislature is one of the oldest law-making bodies in this country, it being 86 years older than the Senate and almost a century older than Congress under the Constitution. The General Assembly of Colonial days was, the unicameral legislative body of the old colony of New York and dated back to 1691, while the Senate originated in 1777.

"The Senate is said to be the upper house in the Legislature, but the Assembly is superior in the matter of age and traditions and more closely allied to its constituents through the members than the smaller body," said Mr. Stuart.

He then explained certain rules and customs of the Assembly that are not duplicated in any other legislative body in the world and discussed the manner of originating and passing bills. Mr. Stuart also pointed out and described at length certain controversial measures which came before the recent session.

The Assemblyman was assured the individual support of many of the club members after his speech through personal congratulations.

Lenox Fay Member of Crew of Roosevelt Ship

Lenox Fay, son of Mrs. Gertrude Fay, is in a position to watch the daily movements of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, for Lenox is a gob on the United States battleship Philadelphia, which is being used by the President on his vacation trip into southern waters. Lenox graduated from the Addison High School two years ago and has been in the Navy, seeing the world and its people since that time. He will probably mark this as the highlight of his naval experiences, for in addition to being in company with the President, this marks the initial trip of this ship, which is one of the newest of Uncle Sam's fighting vessels. This trip is its trial run and some of the Navy's chosen sailors were selected to man the ship.

Legion Auxiliary Prepares Plans for Poppy Days

Mrs. Marjorie Edwards, president of the American Legion Auxiliary has appointed Mrs. Maude Chart chairman of the poppy sale to be conducted May 23 to 28 inclusive. Window displays will be under the direction of Mrs. Ada Auringer.

Gamma Kaps Sponsor Dance in Town Hall Fri.

The Gamma Kappa Delta Society youth organization of the Church of the Redeemer will sponsor a semi-formal dance in the Town Hall Friday night for one of the first of the May Dances. Music will be provided by Fred Dorrance and his 11 piece orchestra of Elkland. They will be accompanied by a young woman vocalist, who is a regular part of the unit.

The young people in charge of the dance have been preparing the hall for the affair. This is the first public dance ever held by this year old organization and they are anxious to make it a success, socially and financially.

Lewis Brown, Veteran Railroader, Dies Thurs.

Lewis L. Brown, 69, retired Baltimore and Ohio railroad conductor, died Thursday in a Philadelphia hospital after an operation for removal of a tumor on the brain. Mr. Brown was well known in railroad circles during the past three generations for he was employed by the B. and O. for 40 years, only retiring last year on the death of his wife. At that time he suffered a stroke from which he never fully recovered. He lived at his home in Galeton with a daughter, Helen. Funeral services were held in the Galeton Catholic Church and the remains taken to Costello, Pa., where he was buried Monday beside his wife. Mr. Brown came here daily as passenger conductor on the run from Galeton.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

Class antagonism was declared the greatest menace to business this week when President George Davis addressed the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Davis criticized the reformers and theorists on whom he placed the blame for the "serious predicament we are in today." Winthrop Aldrich, one of the business leaders who recently pledged cooperation of their business with government, stated the President's new spending program amounted to "removing all brakes and heading for disaster."

Adolph Hitler has entered Rome on his long advertised visit to Mussolini. The capital city is filled with soldiers brought in to guard against any outbreak, while the railway journey of Hitler was watched closely as his special train steamed to Rome. Thousands of radicals were imprisoned or sent out of that city for the period of Hitler's visit.

Secret radio broadcasts have threatened the life of Stalin and the Russian Red leader is more closely guarded than ever. The broadcasts purport to come from within Russia, but Red leaders believe they issue from an airplane or from some source outside the country. The message reiterates: "Stalin has been sentenced to death and the Liberators' League will carry out the execution."

Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of the former Kaiser has been wed in Potsdam, Germany. He married a descendant of the Romanoff family. Had the war not put an end to the reign of Hohenzollerns and Romanoffs in Germany and Russia the celebration of this event would have carried to every village and hamlet from Hamburg to Vladivostok, instead of being a simple ceremony.

The Rules Committee of the House voted last week 7 to 5 not to send out the Administration wages and hours bill which would bind all concerns engaged in interstate commerce. Despite the setback the President has asked this legislation be brought out for debate on the House floor, by petition if necessary. Southern Congressmen who were incensed by the Roosevelt Gainesville speech show little inclination to grant the executive's request.

Former Resident Purchases Taylor Cub Monoplane

Ray Beers is the first resident of this vicinity to be the owner of an airplane. He recently purchased a Taylor Cub monoplane from the D. W. Flying Service in LeRoy. The machine is a dual control four cylinder machine which will be used for instructing students in aviation and also for taking passengers for flight in this vicinity. The plane is being kept in the Miles field, between Addison and Painted Post.

The instruction and passenger carrying are being done by Joe Costa, Corning tran-oceanic flyer who was grounded last year on a trip to South America. Already there are 12 students signed to take the work in learning to fly.

Mr. Beers is a son of Mrs. Herbert Seeley, Knoxville. He is a graduate of the Addison High School and has long been interested in aviation. The purchase of this plane is a realization of his dreams.

Woodhull Exchange Moved to Kilmer Home

The telephone exchange, which has been located in the Leon Quick place of business and operated by them will be moved to the Everitt Kilmer house.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Updyke and family of Greenwood have purchased the restaurant and business of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Quick and took possession May 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Quick and family are residing temporarily in the Fred Benson house.

Commuters Held Dance in AHS

Commuters of the Addison High School, which is the group of students who come to school on the busses ,held an informal dance in the high school gymnasium Friday night for girls of the home economics department and friends of the club members. The Reagan Brothers orchestra of Rathbone, provided music for dancing both round and square.

Rev. Lacey is Officer in Corning Minister Group

The Rev. Garland G. Lacey of the Addison Methodist Church was elected secretary and treasurer of the Corning Ministers' and Vicinity Ministers' Association at a meeting held in Beaver Dams Monday. The Corning group met with the Schuyler County group for this meeting. This is the first time these organizations have met jointly.

Mrs. George Allen, Bath, was the speaker. Her topic was "The Minister's Wife Has Her Say." This was followed by a discussion.

The District Deputy Tomaro of the Knights of Columbus spoke on the drive for clean literature being made by the Knights and the Catholic Church. He asked the cooperation of the ministers in this drive for clean literature. The group voted to cooperate in the statewide drive, complimented the Knights of Columbus on their stand and will promote the clean literature campaign.

The next meeting of the Corning group will be held in Denison Park, Corning. This will be a picnic June 9. Mrs. Lacey was in charge of devotions Monday. The Rev. and Mrs. Lacey accompanied the Rev. and Mrs. John V. Axtell to the meeting.

Civic Society Meets in AHS May 13

Miss Ellen Knepley, publicity chairman for the Women's Civic Society announces that the next meeting of the society will be held Friday afternoon, May 13. Mrs. Garland G. Lacey will present a solo.

A representative of a state institution for the study of malignant diseases will be the speaker at the June meeting in the Addison High School auditorium. Mrs. Irving Gladstone will be in charge of the program.

Addison to Be Host To Kennel Club

Members of the Southern Tier Kennel Club will hold a meeting Thursday evening May 5, in the Eagle Hotel. Dinner will be served at 7:30 followed by a business meeting and discussion. Anyone interested is welcome to attend this dinner meeting.

At the business meeting plans will be made for a summer meeting and possibly a dog show at Watkins Glen and discussion relative to the annual dog show at the Allegany County Fair will be held.

The club now has a membership of ninety covering a territory extending from Elmira to Jamestown and an effort is being made to increase the list of members. Dr. Thomas Howe of Friendship is president of the club.

The meeting Thursday evening will be a regular monthly meeting of the group. Other meetings have been held in Elmira, Bath, Olean and Hornell.

Village Hall Repairs Discussed By Trustees Mon.—Other Business

Lengthy session of solons devoted to new Main Street bridge, the I. O. O. F. lease on village hall, taxpayers' complaints—Clean-up days May 17 and 18

Village board members attacked several problems of vital interest to Addisonites at the regular monthly meeting Monday night. Among the problems discussed were: new roofing for the village hall and the I. O. O. F. contract with the village for the lease of the third floor, cleanup week, the new Main Street bridge, collection of taxes and the state requirement that no extension of time be permitted, complaints of two taxpayers were received and bills were audited. These and other affairs were before the board for discussion.

Main Street Bridge

Village Attorney Charles Salerno opened the meeting by giving a report of a conference held Moday in Hornell with H. F. Brumm, divisional engineer for the New York State Highway Department. Representatives of the village and county were present in the interests of the new bridge over the Canisteo on Main Street.

Attorney Salerno

Mr. Salerno said in part: "Mayor Sisto was unable to attend the meeting owing to a previous appointment and I went as his representative with Edwin C. Smith and Walter Goff as interested citizens and Robert O. Hayt, engineer also represented the village without pay. The state engineers feel that the floor of the bridge should be raised four feet above the grade of Main street. This would bring the south approach back to the theatre in the vicinity of Wombough street.

Four Feet Above Street

"I could see that in raising the grade of the street property owners would be entitled to damages owing to raising this grade. There was a time, prior to 1937 when the village could be held responsible for damages. But in 1937 the law was changed so that the village is not liable. The law does not state whether the county or the state is liable but the village definitely is not liable. It was suggested that the state put concrete walks and walls at the Main Street grade if the village or county would be liable for damages and I contend this cannot be done. Judge Smith also said he thought such action would be illegal.

"Engineer Brumm consented to lower the bridge floor two feet and he will make every effort to lower it as much more as possible.

Flooring 42 Inches

"The bridge will be the same as that over the Conhocton River on the Addison-Painted Post road. Because of the traffic, Engineer Brumm said the floor thickness will have to be 42 inches."

Prize Speaking In AHS Monday—Public Invited

The annual prize speaking contest for the Addison High School students will be held Monday night in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. There will be five girls and five boys on the speaking program in what promises to be one of the most entertaining programs ever presented in prize speaking. This is owing to the fact the students have been devoting a great deal of time both in school and outside to the preparation of their respective selections. Mrs. Alice Breese, English and speech instructor is in charge of the program.

In addition there will be selections by the high school orchestra. There is a small fee geing charged to defray the expense of the prize and also of sending the winning boy and girl to the county contest. The affair is being sponsored under the direction of the Student Council.

MARSHALL WEST

Marshall West died at his home in Binghamton Wednesday night, April 27. Mr. West was 35 years of age and was the son of the late Walter and Ella Wood West of Binghamton. School Board Plans Baccalaureate Service in Addison High School

Plan community improvement projects for NYA—Votes to send high school band to state meet in Jamestown — Votes to close school May 12 and send band to Bath Hospital dedication.

School trustees met Thursday night to plan summer repairs for the school building, to take action on securing additional National Youth projects and workers for Addison, to vote an appropriation to take the high school band to the state music contest in Jamestown May 14 and to pass a resolution to have the baccalaureate sermon in the high school owing to the lack of seating capacity in the local churches. Other matters were considered and reported upon.

Bills for April were audited and ordered paid. These were as follows: Teachers' salaries $3,010; janitor salaries, $224; Mrs. Pauline Armstrong, substitute teacher, $8; Harold Hovey, substitute teacher, $25; Addison Home Telephone Co., $6.30; Sisto Lumber Co., $11.09; M. G. Hubbs, electric lamps, $10.00; L. E. Handy, supplies, $21.60; John Smith, $7.20; Library Book House, $22.39, books; Lyon-Carnahan, books, 48c; George Arnold, two books, $2.25; School and College Service, $2.72; Henry Shelanskey, oil, gas, storage and supplies, $7.61; Acme Chemical Co., $3.50; Bardeen School Supply Co., $13.70; American Book Co., $242; Hawkins & Hill, $4.75; G. A. MacGreevey, $45.72; I. R. Gladstone, home economics and office expenditures, $17.88; First National Bank of Addison, temporary note and interest $1,469; Addison Gas & Power Co., $2.56; New York State Gas & Electric, $75.39; American Educational Press, $7.15.

NYA Projects

Principal Irving R. Gladstone reported that Keith Allen, regional NYA administrator, is to be in Addison soon. Mr. Allen told Mr. Gladstone this village is entitled to more workers if a worthwhile project can be secured. Mr. Gladstone gave it as his opinion that three workers on a 40-hour per month basis, receiving $15 each could do a great deal of work. Two of the present workers are graduating from high school this season. Mr. Gladstone felt that a recreational project or some community improvement project can be established to take advantage of this offer of additional workers. Trustee Kenneth Armstrong felt that some sort of supervised playground activity would be a help.

Civic Improvements

President Maurice Miller thought a project for beautifying the dike along the Tuscarora Creek front near the school can be undertaken. He suggested the planting of willows, which would enhance the beauty of the dike and also strengthen it. This belief was seconded by Miss Fannie Curtis and Mrs. Willis R. Perry, trustees. Mr. Gladstone also suggested the grammar school grounds might be improved. Mr. Armstrong moved that an inquiry be made from Mr. Allen as to what can be done and projects be laid out for his consideration. This program to use as many students as it is possible to get on the NYA. The motion was seconded by Trustee John Russ.

Mr. Gladstone was authorized to purchase four steel cash boxes, with locks, for use at athletic games, in the home economics department and in student activities. The person in charge of the box will be responsible for the funds of the organization deposited in the box.

Baccalaureate in High School

On motion of Mr. Armstrong it was voted to hold the baccalaureate sermon in the high school auditorium. This followed a discussion.

Bath Deanery Elects F. G. Clark to Office

Fred G. Clark of Addison was elected treasurer of the BathEpiscopal Deanery at the annual meeting held in this village last Sunday afternoon and evening. Churches throughout the deanery were represented by clergymen and men and women of the various parishes from Montour Falls to Canisteo.

The Rev. Donald Ellwood, Montour Falls was chosen dean at a meeting of the men held in the Methodist Church parlors while the women were meeting in Guild Hall, the Redeemer Church. Professor Theodore Odell of Hobart College spoke to the men on "Layman's Part in the Church."

The Rev. Albert H. Head, pastor of the local congregation presided at a short business meeting at which the elections were held., elected in addition to those above mentioned was Burr Hollands, Hornell, secretary. All are elected for two year terms. Mr. Clark was unable to attend owing to being out of town.

While the men were meeting, Miss Helen G. Brent, Geneva, national president of the Girl's Friendly Society was speaking on "Missions" to the women. This meeting was presided over by Mrs. Hollands, Hornell, president of the Deanery Women.

The sessions were recessed at six o'clock during which time, the women of the Redeemer Auxiliary served a supper to 87. Mrs. Dixon E. Curtis was chairman of the menu committee. Girls of theGamma Kappas served.

Devotional services were held in the evening with the Rev. Albert H. Head in charge. During this service, Professor Robert A. Polson, of the Rural Engineering Department, Cornell University spoke on "Recent Trends E ffecting Rural Communities." Special emphasis was placed on the part the churches take in various communities and trends towards centralization of church activities.

MR. FORD HAS SPOKEN

An "inside" press story from Washington states that no less a New Dealer than Tommy Corcoran—dwarf No. 1 in the Administration ensemble—was the heavy thinker behind the idea to enlist business men of the country to pledge their support to the President for recovery. The pledge, as Corcoran is supposed to have originally written it, sounded littly if anything like the final announcement which appeared in the papers. Corcoran was so broad in the statements he wanted business men to sign that they simply refused to sign at all.

Of course Tommy did not actually approach any business men himself. Ah no, the New Dealers are not crude enough to attempt to speak the same language of men who engage in trade and industry. It is usually Dan Roper (poor Uncle Dan, the attempt of the Administration to appear human to business men) who is liason man when the New Dealers desire to get someone besides politicians and labor leaders to say a good word for some Roosevelt idea. But this time it was Securities and Exchange Commissioner John Hanes, once of Wall Street, who was delegated to get the pledge signed. He is said to have tried with no success. Finally after the pledge had been revised and re-written until the No. 1 dwarf would not have known it Mr. Hanes had a little better luck.

Business is anxious to have prosperity come and a few leaders in industry who would like to sympathize with the best ideals of the New Deal signed it. And the propaganda channels immediately were flooded with stories which played up this pact, played it up far in excess of the actual importance it held. It gained many a streamline head in daily newspapers, a head which left the readers decidedly "let-down" as they endeavored to glean enough importance from the body of the story to justify its emblazonment.

Quite an opposite treatment was accorded the last chapter in the long heralded luncheon engagement of Henry Ford at the White House. For two weeks advance publicity dished out the delectable fact that for the first time in the history of the New Deal Henry Ford was to pay a visit on the President. Unpublicized by the New Dealers, yet a fact which did trickle through into the press was the story that Mr. Roosevelt had thrown out bait on many occasions apparently designed to encourage Mr. Ford to seek an interview at the White House. In the end, as everyone must know, the White House sent an urgent invitation for Ford to call, and no American could fail to comply with such a request.

Ford went to the White House, and the advance notice from Washington was as the blare of trumpets. Ford left the White House after the luncheon and the air around the executive mansion was heavily laden with silence about that interview. Word leaked out that the President turned on his famous smile in an attempt to win over the auto manufacturer, but Ford was not charmed. Ford is said to have tossed out a few words of advice to the President which the latter did not relay to the press in the regular newspaper interviews, and the manufacturer left without being confirmed a New Dealer.

When reporters tried to get a statement out of Mr. Ford about the conference he was noncommittal, and Mr. Roosevelt sought to divert attention from the obviously unprofitable discussion—as far as the New Deal was concerned—by boarding a warship for a week's fishing trip. But eventually Ford did break his silence to utter a few cryptic words. The Ford statement was called his first public speech, for it was spoken at the annual dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. Yet the few words Ford spoke in response to a call from the chair came nearer being a parable than a speech, for they left the listeners free to draw their own conclusions as to the meaning of the speaker.

Ford said: "We are all on the spot. Stick to your guns and I will help you, with the assistance of my son, all I can." That was all. Yet it was enough to tell the world that Mr. Ford thinks industry is pitted in a life or death struggle with the New Deal. He later clarified his views a little by stating that it is not with the government business is at odds, but with the men behind the government.

So the issue is brought out into the open. Business, which early in this Administration was held up to scorn and ridicule by the New Dealers trying to make over our nation, has at last found a mouth-piece unafraid to utter defiance at the leaders who have attempted by insidious means to undermine the very ground upon which the greatness of this country has been built. The speaker was ineloquent, and compared to the men who have been uttering platitudes in Washington for five years, a stammering novice at speechmaking. Yet he conveyed to all the unradicals in America the truth that those who would save this land from being converted into a totalitarian state must "stick to their guns".

Mr. Ford has clearly defined the line of march. Others before him, both Democrats and Republicans, have pointed to the desirability of a coalition to save us in the emergency. For with New Dealers ready to spend the country into bankruptcy at every turn of the wind, it is of transcendent importance that the conservative men and women of this country band together as a unit to salvage our American institutions.

COME PIG, PIG, PIG

One night last week the village did an excellent job in cleaning up Addison Main Street. The following morning from one end of the street to the other the business section presented a spic and span appearance which inspired pride and satisfaction in the mind of every person with an iota of neatness in their personality.

That was at eight o'clock in the morning. By eleven o'clock that same morning papers began to appear, scattered here and there upon the street. And by four o'clock the litter was again accumulating in the gutters and drifting out into the middle of the street. Once more our business section was being converted into a startling imitation of the Ghetto.

Who was to blame? Every person who threw a piece of paper down on the street, no matter how small, was to blame. The man who tossed down an empty cigarette paper, the girl who threw aside a gum wrapper, the civically untidy yet personally tidy persons who tossed hand-bills out of their own cars on the public street, the truckman who threw a damaged carton from his truck, the merchants who swept papers off the walk in front of their stores into the gutter. These and dozens of others were to blame for quickly turning a neatly cleaned street into a public hogpen.

Well, what can we do about it? That is your problem as much as mine—that is if you are a citizen possessed with a grain of civic pride. Of course if you are the kind that sits in a car consuming bananas and throwing the peelings in the street, it is hardly to be expected you have any civic pride. But most people have at least a little grain of it, deep down inside. We admit it is impossible to do anything about the "pig-kind" of two-legged animals who some way escaped from the environment of their Berkshire ancestors—we'll just naturally have to keep cleaning up, and cleaning up behind these people. But even discounting the possibility of reforming these (fortunately they are very, very few and we know Mr. Reader you are not one of them) great strides toward civic neatness on our streets can be accomplished when you and I THINK before we throw out trash to litter our streets. That will help amazingly, for as we said the natural born "pigs" walking upright are exceedingly scarce.

We hate to speak about this, right out in print. For we know you are going to remember it. And we know that the next time you carelessly toss papers in the street you will look over your shoulder with a guilty sort of feeling and say to yourself:

"Hope nobody begins to call, 'come pig, pig, PIG'."

BERLIN PAPERS PLEASE COPY

Nazi Germans in Czechoslovakia are putting up a great howl about their minority rights being denied in that country. The fact that they are apparently quite a dense populated national unit in a small area in the country, contributes to their vociferous outbursts through the leader of the group, Konrad Henlein. Henlein insists that Germans living in the Czech nation shall be governed in the same manner as if they were living in the country dominated by Hitler. A condition impossible for any free democracy like Czechoslovakia to swallow.

When one considers the absolute intolerance imposed upon Jews in Germany by Hitler and his Nazi crowd, one is moved to marvel at the gall of Henlein in suggesting such an impossible situation to the government under which he lives. Yet there is a way out for Henlein and his enthusiastic followers, a way out which has perhaps not suggested itself to them.

We would recommend that in view of the fact Germany under the Austrian paper-hanger rule has deprived Jews in the country of practically every right of free-born men, a fair trade be made with the residents of Czech territory who wish to live under the swastika. Let the Jews who have been ruthlessly stripped of German citizenship and property rights be allowed to migrate to Czechoslovakia and the room they filled in Germany be occupied with the dissatisfied Nazi residents of Czech territory. Doubtless in a country ruled by the broad visioned Benes there is room for educated Jews at the top of their professions, whether they be surgeons, lawyers, musicians, bankers, or teachers. These men are outcasts in Germany, more spurned than the Shylock of Shakespeare's play, yet they are of flesh and blood and have made a great contribution to the dominant place Germany has usually held among the nations of the world. Probably President Benes would be glad to nationalize a few hundred thousand of them in exchange for the troublesome Nazis led by Henlein. Then everyone would be satisfied. Take the idea for what it is worth Hitler and Henlein, and no charge for the suggestion.

In Defense of Mrs. Roosevelt

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE League of Catholic Women and any other group of people in the United States are certainly permitted to have their own ideas about divorce, and about the desirability of this or that film or book, but they overreach themselves, it seems to me, when they suggest that the wife of the President of the United States has not a right to her own highly individual opinion about either of these things or anything else.

As a matter of fact, what one likes about Mrs. Roosevelt is her willingness on occasion to "make pronouncements that give offense to a large part of our citizens." Thereby she demonstrates that the President's wife does not have to become a robot during the period of her husband's occupation of the White House.

I don't think that the prestige of Mrs. Roosevelt's position will change anybody's ideas about divorce, and I doubt whether her support of the film "The Birth of a Baby" is any more important than similar support given by presidents of boards of health, directors of associations for the improvement of the condition of the poor or nationally known physicians. I do think it important that people should not be bulldozed by organizations for candid expressions of their opinion. Mrs. Roosevelt is not a man, but neither is she a mouse.

The statements that drew the fire of Mrs. Charles Feehan, president of the League of Catholic Women, addressing the Second Diocesan Congress in Boston the other day, were that "divorce is a recognized factor in American life" and that the controversial motion picture, "The Birth of a Baby," could not be harmful because it was honest."

Now, divorce certainly is a factor in American life, and I don't see why it should give offense to recognize a fact. Out of every hundred marriages in this country sixteen are dissolved by divorce. Divorce is recognized by the law in every state of the Union except one, for causes ranging from lack of physical fidelity to "mental cruelty," interpreted very broadly in Reno.

It is permitted by the entire Protestant Church, and this is a Protestant country. There are a great many frivolous divorces in the United States, but they are the result of frivolous marriages.

Other divorces occur for reasons of profound incompatibility—which is the only really good reason for divorce—and where there are children involved the process is usually extremely painful for both people who have to go through it. People don't usually divorce just for fun.

The rate is extremely high in the United States, and I suspect that the reasons are two: there are still more men than women in this country, and women own a larger proportion of the wealth here than they do anywhere else in the world. There is therefore a great deal of economic independence and there is more than one man for every woman. The Catholic Church is opposed to divorce, although it admits the impossibility of certain marriages and occasionally annuls them. A very good case can be made against divorce. I certainly think it can be demonstrated that the relations between men and women, or between husbands and wives, are as happy in those countries that frown on divorce as they are where divorce is legal and generally accepted by public opinion. I doubt whether in the former societies there is any more sexual fidelity.

But Mrs. Roosevelt's statement was a plain statement of fact and she ought not to be pilloried for making it.

As for the film, "The Birth of a Baby"—I never saw the film, I only saw the stills as published in "Life,"—but I simply cannot understand the hullabaloo about either of them. One might bring a journalistic objection against the film on the ground that it's not news, or an artistic objection on the ground that the captions are occasionally banal and sentimental and the whole picture not particularly esthetic.

But since its purpose was not to titillate the public curiosity, but to give a graphic, simple description of a physiological process with recommendations for prenatal care, these objections are not valid.

There was absolutely nothing prurient about the pictures, and there was nothing in them that is not already known to every adolescent girl who has been educated in a good school or by a careful mother, and has not got her information out of the gutter.

By and large, Mrs. Roosevelt's remark "I never think honest things are bad" was a highly moral statement. Courage, generosity, and honesty are still the primary virtues of free men, and the bases of all morality.

This society is not going to be wrecked because it has too much of any one of the three.

This column is written without any edge against Catholicism. But Catholicism exists in this country as a minority religion. It increases its numbers by the deep humaneness and universality of its philosophy and religion, and by the beauty of its ritual. It does not, in my belief help itself by this sort of personal attack on honest people who do not share the attitude of the Church on what, from a non-Catholic point of view, are very minor matters of opinion.

It is not at all necessary to agree with Mrs. Roosevelt in all her opinions—this column often does not—in order to admire her very American and attractive spirit of independence, and her impulsive warm-heartedness.

Constitution and Tax Exemption

By WALTER LIPPMANN

AT THE present time the Federal government may not tax the income from bonds or official salaries of the states, and the states may not tax Federal bonds and salaries. This means that there are between 50 and 60 billions of bonds of which the income is partially or wholly exempt from taxation by the states or the Federal government, and there are some 3½ million officeholders who have a tax privilege that other citizens do not enjoy. These immunities do not rest on any express provision in the Constitution. They rest on a line of judicial decisions originating in 1819 with the famous opinion of Chief Justice Marshall in M'Culloch v. Maryland.

Ever since the war, that is ever since the government created a great debt that was wholly or partly tax exempt, every Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Glass, Mr. Mellon, Mr. Mills, and Mr. Morgenthau, has urged that steps be taken to end tax exemption in securities to be issued in the future. It has always been assumed by the Treasury and by the best lawyers in Congress that in the face of the judicial decisions this most desirable reform could not be carried out except by amending the Constitution, and it has generally been recognized by politicians and students of politics that such an amendment, since it would make official salaries taxable, has small chance of being ratified by the states. The 2½ million state and local employees would presumably have enough political influence at home to resist effectively a proposal to make them pay Federal income tax, especially since they would have as their allies over a million Federal employees objecting to the payment of state income taxes.

President Roosevelt has now proposed to overcome this difficulty by enacting a Federal statute ending the immunity for the future, and letting the Supreme Court say whether the old precedents stand or whether the Constitution can be re-interpreted. The President's suggestion is not, as some commentators have suggested, another attack on the judiciary and on constitutional principle. In spite of the decisions there is a real doubt about the whole matter. The Constitution is silent about it and it would be entirely proper for Congress to ask the court to reconsider the problem.

That the matter is debatable is evident from what happened when the sixteenth amendment was before the New York State legislature for ratification. Chief Justice Hughes was at that time Governor of New York and he hesitated to recommend ratification because he thought the amendment would allow the Federal government to tax income from New York State bonds. His objections were overcome by assurances from Senator Elihu Root and Senator Borah, but the sponsor of the amendment, Senator Brown, thought Governor Hughes might be right. So the matter is at least debatable.

If it is debated, a most cogent argument can be made, I think, that the principles of the basic decision of John Marshall in M'Culloch v. Maryland do not apply to the taxation of incomes.

The case, it will be recalled, arose out of the attempt of the State of Maryland to tax the notes of a bank not chartered by the State of Maryland. This meant the Bank of the United States which had been chartered by Congress.

When the case reached Chief Justice Marshall, he held that if a state could tax the national bank, it could destroy the bank by making the tax big enough, and thus a state could prevent the Federal government from doing what it had a right to do. If the states may tax the national bank, said Marshall, "they may tax the mail; they may tax the mint; they may tax patent rights; they may tax papers of the custom house; they may tax judicial process; they may tax all the means employed by the government, to an excess which would defeat all the ends of government. This was not intended by the American people. They did not design to make their government dependent on the states."

Now it seems clear enough that what Marshall was talking about were taxes specifically laid on some particular agency of the government; thus, for example, a state tax on the salaries of the Federal judges might abolish the Federal judiciary in that state. But would he have held that an income tax laid on all incomes alike could destroy the Federal judiciary or imperil its independence? Maryland was trying to lay a tax on the national bank that it was not laying on Maryland banks. It was this discrimination, it seems to me, that is the essence of Marshall's objection. For that made the tax not a revenue measure but a device for penalizing the national bank. And it was with this in mind that Marshall uttered the famous dictum that "the power to tax involves the power to destroy."

A tax which is not directed against any particular security or salary but falls equally on all incomes of the same size does not, it seems to me, have any of the characteristics of the tax that Marshall was considering. This, I take it, was the view of Mr. Justice Holmes in 1920 when, discussing an income tax on judges' salaries, he said in the dissenting opinion in Evans v. Gore that "to require a man to pay the taxes that all other men have to pay cannot possibly be made an instrument to attack his independence as a judge." Marshall's principle Holmes dealt with by saying "that is a very good reason for preventing attempts to deal with a judge's salary as such, but seems to me no reason for exonerating him from the ordinary duties of a citizen, which he shares with all others."

In view of the fact that the Constitution is silent, in view of the fact that the basic judicial decision by Marshall dealt with a radically different question, the President seems to me well justified in asking Congress to let the Supreme Court reconsider the whole matter.

NEW VETERAN HOSPITAL AT BATH TO BE DEDICATED NEXT WEEK

Village Hall Repairs Discussed By Trustees Mon.—Other Business

Five Per cent Grade

Trustee Hubert Orr asked Mr. Salerno if the Erie Railroad objected to this change in grade. The Attorney said the railroad could be raised eight inches and there would remain a five per cent grade on the north side of the river. There was a discussion of grades and danger at this curve, crossing and bridge intersection. Mr. Salerno reported that he had asked Mr. Brumm if a local delegation interceded with the state authorities in Albany would aid. Mr. Brumm replied in the negative.

City Hall History

The history of the Odd Fellows' lease with the village for the third floor of the village hall was read and discussed. Attorney Salerno reviewed minutes of the meeting prior to the building of the village hall. Among the items noted were: Election in the village May 25, 1906 to determine whether the trustees could issue a bond for $10,000 to buy a lot and erect a village hall. The vote was 142 yes and 46 noes. May 31, 1906 the lot was purchased from C. D. Hill for $1,500. August 17, 1906 a special election was held to determine whether the trustees should sell and convey to Lodge 345 I. O. O. F., the third story rights in the building for $2,500 with right of ingress and egress. The vote was 78 yes and nine opposed.

On January 8, 1907 the village trustees contracted with the trustees of the I. O. O. F. and the terms of the contract were not in the minutes of the meeting.

Another special election was held in March, 1907 to determine if the village trustees should issue bonds for $8,000 to complete work on the village hall. The vote was 125 yes and 27 against. Another special election was held July 23, 1907 with the proposal being "Shall the village board raise $3,500 to complete the building of the village hall. The vote was 59 for and 19 against.

I. O. O. F. Lease Read

Extracts from the contract with the I. O. O. F. were read. The provisions were: $400 to be paid on execution of the contract between the village and the lodge, $400 when the steel girders were in place, $400 when the windows were set, $400 when the roof was complete and the balance of $500 when the lodge was ready to move into the building. In addition the lodge was to pay $10 annually toward the upkeep of the roof, and no other expense and no tax. The village agreed to keep the roof in a good state of repair at all times.

Roof Needs Fixing

This preview of the situation as it exists was given by Village Attorney Salerno to show the village trustees that they must fix the roof of the building. Mayor Angelo Sisto agreed the roof is in poor condition and needs repairing. He consulted two contractors as to what was needed. One contractor refused to repair the roof as it now exists and the other estimated the cost at between $1,500 and $2,500.

Nails in the tiles have rotted, tiles are broken and slipping, gutters are damaged, water has seeped into the walls and frost has caused damage to the interior and exterior of the building, a chimney is cracked, the chimneys are too high and the cupola needs repairing and recovering. Most of the trustees agreed the building needed a new roof and the tile should be discarded as expensive, unsafe and not weatherproof.

Mr. Salerno asked if it could not be made a PWA project with a local contractor and local labor in which the money could be borrowed without interest and the privilege of repaying in 50 years. This will be investigated, but the village is expected to pay heavily for repairing the building.

Mayor Sisto asked if the board should hold a special village election to raise the bonds for the work. Mr. Salerno stated that even though the measure were defeated by the voters, the village trustees are bound by the I. O. O. F. contract and the fact that the building needs repairs.

Mayor Seeks Solution

Mr. Sisto asked if the Town of Addison has any interest in the building. Mr. Salerno said there is a lease with the town for a certain portion of the building which is used for a jail, but to the best of his knowledge there have been no payments on this lease. Trustee Russell Allen said the town has one-half interest in the jail. Attorney Salerno is to investigate this matter. There was considerable discussion relative to the roof, repairs and the I. O. O. F. contract.

Mel Murray Wants Walk

Mel Murray, who contends he lives on East Water Street, and which the village fathers are not sure is a street, appeared before the board to ask that a sidewalk be constructed to his property. He has been before the board for the past four years seeking a walk along the Pepper property east of the Pep-o Bakery. No one seems to know who owns some of the property here. Attorney Salerno is to examine the leases and report to the board. Mr. Murray said his lease states that East Water street is his north boundary and the river his south. He also said the original charter of Addison calls this section East Water street. Mr. Allen said the Erie claimed property 13½ feet south of the south rail.

Seeks Charter

The question of the village charter was brought to the attention of the board by Trustee Allen who asked Clerk Wilfred Miller to bring a copy with him to the next meeting so the board members could determine just what powers village officers have.

Mr. Orr asked that a copy of a resolution in the minutes of many years ago, relative to sidewalks, be brought to the board meeting by the clerk. This resolution specifies the width of walks and other provisions relative to walks.

Taxation Without Representation

Llewellyn Towner, upper Goodhue street, appeared before the board to protest his tax rate. He stated he is willing to pay his share of village taxes if he can secure services. He has no water, street lights, gas or electricity nor sidewalks.

This precipitated a discussion over what is required of the utilities. Attorney Salerno said the original gas franchise, granted for a period of 100 years, provided that the price of gas should not exceed 33c per 1,000 cubic feet, but no place in the contract does it provide that the company must provide service to all residents. When the Public Service Commission took over control of the industry, they took the matter out of village hands and provided a rate of 88c. The village can request but not compel service. Mr. Towner wants gas and cannot get it. The utility company will provide service within 100 feet of a gas main, and Mr. Towner is outside that limit, being about 500 feet from a main. He was told by a company official that he could have gas if he would pay one-half of a $500 cost. Mr. Phelps said it cost him $40 to get poles for lights to his home.

Mr. Salerno said the question would have to be settled once and for all for many such complaints will be filed and he was empowered to take up the matter with the Public Service Commission as to the rights of the individual, village and the utility. When Mr. Towner spoke of street lights, he was told it cost the village $60 per pole for a light per year.

Hardscrabble Repairs

Attorney Hugh Varn, who is suing the village for damage to his car on the village owned Hardscrabble road; is willing to drop his case if the village will repair the road. Improper drainage is the cause of this highway being in dangerous condition. Mayor Sisto purchased heavy corrugated pipe, 18 inches in diameter at $1.32 per foot. The original cost was $1.65. The total cost will be $63.36 and Street Commissioner Ira Heidrick will install the pipe.

Clean-up Days

Cleanup days will be Tuesday and Wednesday, May 17 and 18. The village will take care of the removal of rubbish left at the curb. No garbage or ashes will be taken.

No Tax Pay Extension

A letter was read by Clerk Miller in which it was pointed out by the state tax department, that village taxes are due by July 1 and no extension is to be granted. This letter is printed in full in another column of this paper. Clerk Miller will begin tax collections June 1.

Bills Audited

Bills audited and ordered paid were: Hawkins & Hill, greasing and repair of trucks, $21.45; Hawkins & Hill, checking fire truck, $2.25; Whitmore Hardware, rake $1; John Russ, bearing and parts for village truck, $46.69; L. E. Handy, lock for fire coats and rack, $1.33; S. C. Erwin, broom, $1; postage, keys for jail $2.36; New York Central Electric Corp., $294.67; W. R. Crocker, fire insurance on Chevorlet truck, $5; Wall Street Garage, inspection of fire truck, $1.25; Addison Advertiser, machine ballots, election and other notices, $10.90; Lane Pipe Corp., $63.36.

BRASS TACKS For POULTRY RAISERS

By BURTON P. THARP

The Asiatic Class

The fowls of this class are heavy and most of them loosely feathered giving them a massive appearance. As the name of this class indicates they had their origin in Asia—more specifically China.

In egg production they are excelled by both the Mediterranean and the American classes. Having very large bones they do not make as good broilers but when larger their excellent flesh and size make them very satisfactory as roasters and capons.

Of this class the Brahmas, Cochins and Javans are popular, the Cochins in particular. There are several varieties of these three breeds.

The Asiatics are very slow in maturing and usually will not lay until they are at least eight months old. The shells of the eggs are varying shades of brown. As a rule the egg production of this class is below the American class of poultry. The fertility in also lower.

They make excellent pets because they have a very quiet disposition and are friendly. They do not become excited easily. Because of their nature they run to fat very easily and the feed should be watched in order to prevent this condition.

The hens of this class are inclined to broodiness and make very good mothers except for the fact that they are so heavy that they sometimes break eggs and crush small chicks accidentally. Their quiet faithfulness sometimes overcomes the disadvantage of their weight.

The Asiatics are a very hardy class and may be kept within enclosures by a low fence because the birds are too heavy to lift themselves for from the ground. They are heavily and very loosely feathered which with their tendency to become fat makes them hard to beat in withstanding cold weather.

The individuals of this class have feathers on the feet and shanks. Unless they have clean range these feathers become very unattractive. The Asiatics make a good farm flock and are very satisfactory for the average family for meat and eggs.

Grist Cow High For Year 1936-37—Jasper Herd Leads S. S. D. H. I.

H. D. Grist of Woodhull has high cow for butterfat and milk production. This purebred Holstein Canary Sadie Vale De Kol No. 1305202, a 12-year-old cow, produced 521.8 pounds of butterfat from 15,895 pounds of milk. Burt F. Smith of Jasper has high herd for the year. During the year this herd was high in the association for four months.

There were three cows that produced over 500 pounds of butterfat, 2 in the herd of A. H. Olmsted and one i nthe herd of H. D. Grist. Forty-nine cows produced over 400 pounds of butterfat and they were in the following herds: Burt F. Smith 3, H. B. Toby 3, H. W. Deming 1, J. H. Reynolds 1, Leon Andrews 1, E. H. Ackerman 3, A. H. Olmsted 5, M. R. Collins 1, H. D. Grist 4, Ray Jordan 2, A. E. Scudder & Son 8, Robert Dann 9, C. A. Stewart & Son 4, Wilson Bennett 4.

The following members have cows that produced over 300 pounds of butterfat: Leon Johnson 2, Burt F. Smith 6, H. B. Toby 12, H. W. Deming 3, J. H. Reynolds 8, C. A. Drake & Son 3, Leon Andrews 9, George Williams 2, E. H. Ackerman 7, Ralph Hand 4, R. F. Ingersoll 2, A. H. Olmsted 14, Bert Jimerson 6, Earl Wilson 2, S. L. Knox 4, M. R. Collins 7, G. M. Stuart 10, H. D. Grist 12, Ray Jordan 13, A. E. Scudder & Son 35, Robert Dann 64, Frank C. Young & Son 3, C. A. Stewart & Son 19, R. R. Decker 11, Wilson Bennett 29, Lewis Titus 1, G. S. McStay 4.

There were 116 cows that produced over 10,000 pounds of milk: H. B. Toby 2, J. H. Reynolds 3, Leon Andrews 5, E. H. Ackerman 6, Ralph Hand 1, R. F. Ingersoll 1, A. H. Olmsted 7, M. R. Collins 1, G. M. Stuart 1, H. D. Grist 9, Ray Jordan 8, A. E. Scudder & Son 20, Robert Dann 28, C. A. Stewart & Son 12, R. R. Decker 4, Wilson Bennett 8.

The tester gives the five high herds for the year based on butterfat production:

	Cows	Milk	Fat
Burt F. Smith	6	6,653.0	386.9
A. H. Olmsted	24	10,504.9	370.3
H. W. Deming	15	8,842.0	367.7
Ray Jordan	18	10,433.7	365.9
E. H. Ackerman	13	10,353.3	357.6

The National Dairy Association awards certificates to herd owners whose averages are 300 pounds of butterfat or over. The following members of the Southern Steuben Dairy Herd Improvement Association will receive these certificates: Burt F. Smith, H. B. Toby, H. W. Deming, J. H. Reynolds, E. H. Ackerman, A. H. Olmsted, Bert Jimerson, H. D. Grist, Ray Jordan, A. E. Scudder & Son, Robert Dann, C. A. Stewart & Son, R. R. Decker and Wilson Bennett.

These thirty dairies tested during the year were under the supervision of Robert S. Drake.

How, What and Why

This paper has arranged with tne Office of Information of the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Keeping Woolen Clothes

Mrs. E. B. wants to know what is recommended for protecting woolen garments from clothes moths. "How are garment bags?"

Grace Griswold of the entomology department answers: "Nothing is better than paradichlorobenzene for protecting woolen garments from the attack of clothes moths.

"Pack the clothing in a wooden chest or trunk, and place a muslin bag of paradichlorobenzene on top of the clothing.

"The care of summer furs is sometimes quite a problem. A tin flour can with a tightly fitted cover makes an ideal container for a small fur neckpiece or a light-weight woolen sweater. A muslin bag containing from two to three tablespoons of paradichlorobenzene should always be present in the can. The neckpiece or the sweater can be removed and worn at any time desired. All odors from the paradichlorobenzene will have disappeared soon after the articles have been taken from the can.

"Heavy paper garment bags are safe storage receptacles only if the garments are absolutely free from eggs and larvae when placed in the bags. Furthermore, the bags must be tightly sealed so that moths cannot crawl in. Since moths can enter through the tiniest of holes, even a very small break renders a bag useless.

"More information on clothes moths is given in Cornell bulletin E-202, 'Common Insects of the Household'. Single copies may be had free from the college".

Growing Turnips

C. R. inquires about the time when turnips grow best.

Dr. A. J. Pratt of the vegetable crops department replies: "Turnips are not of great commercial importance, but many home gardeners grow them. They are a cool-season, quick maturing crop and usually do best when planted in late July or early August in upstate New York. The plants are hardy and may be left in the ground until severe freezing weather in the fall."

Hallstead, Pa.— Three men were sent to the penitentiary for starting a series of fires here. Six to 12 years terms were meted out.

Dedication of Veterans' Hospital At Bath Thursday, May 12th

John J. Bennett, Jr., Albany, attorney-general, and the Right Reverend James Edward Kearney, bishop of the Roman Catholic Church in Diocese of Rochester, will be among the speakers at dedication of the new hospital at the Veteran's Home, Bath, Thursday, May 12. The dedication ceremonies are scheduled at 2 p. m., following a parade in which will be included many visiting bodies of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Spanish-American War Veterans, Grand Army of the Republic, Disabled American Veterans and other organizations. Among bands that will participate are the Watkins Glen Salt Co.'s band of 35 pieces, Avoca High School Band, Bath High School Band, bands representing the Corning Schools, and Addison High School Band with many bugle and drum corps. A feature of the parade will be floats and other exhibits of patriotic character.

Senator Joseph R. Hanley, Perry, will be a speaker at a dinner to be held in the dining hall at the Home in the evening. Among other distinguished visitors will be Gen. William Woods, Dayton, O., who was chairman of the national committee on soldiers' homes, when the Bath Home was taken over from the State of New York by the federal government, several years ago. Joseph Baur, Rochester, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic; R. P. Monahan, New York, department commander of the Disabled American Veterans; Monseigneur William Bergan, Rochester; Charles Burke New York, department commander of Spanish-American War Veterans and others.

The dedication parade will be under direction of Thomas Shanton, of the Veterans' Home, as marshal and the parade will start from Pultenev Square, Bath, at 1 p. m. and march to the Veterans' Home. It is expected that the day will witness an attendance of more than 10,000 visitors. It will be one of the red-letter days in local history.

The hospital is a six story structure, of brick with white stone trimmings and is fireproof. It occupies a site at the west side of the Home grounds on an elevation of about 50 feet above the river level, commanding a splendid view of the Conhocton River to the north and south as well as the hills defining Pleasant Valley leading to the headwaters of Lake Keuka. The front of the building is veiled with a grove of spruce and Norwegian pine, and a paved driveway leads from the parade ground to the entrance of the building.

The hospital has a capacity of 400 beds and is ultra modern in arrangement, furnishings and equipment .

The ground floor is given over to offices of executives, record and storage rooms, the pharmacy department, X-ray department; there is also an auditorium with seating capacity of 300 people, with equipment for showing pictures. On this floor are also offices for an eye-ear nose-and-throat, urological, dental and physiotherapy clinics, another for patients outside the hospital and an office for the social service worker.

Dr. James A. Barker, chief medical officer; Dr. Francis W. Ogg, clinical director; Miss Geneva Shaw, chief nurse; Mrs. Elizabeth B. Hancock, secretary to Dr. Barker, with C. Glen Kellogg and a staff of clinical clerks and assistants have offices on this floor. The dental clinic is under direction of Dr. Paul F. Richards with Dr. Justin W. Bourquin assistant; Dr. S. P. Funkhouser is head of the urological clinic; Dr. Paul J. Bailey is director of the eye and ear clinic and Dr. Ernest B. Downs has the "out patient" clinic. Dr. S. C. Kahlstrom is in charge of the clinical laboratory and the X-ray department; Thomas DeGuzzi is chief pharmacist and Miss Eva Bayard is the social service head. All patients are quartered above the first floor.

The reception office, which is in charge of Dr. C. J. Sturges, is on the second floor. There all patients upon entering the hospital are received, examined, classified and assigned to the respective wards. On the second and third floors is the electrically equipped kitchen and dietary departments which are in charge of Miss Margaret E. Hoskins, assisted by Mrs. Alta Day and Miss Lucille Cox. Here is prepared the tray food service for the bed patients and on the same floor is a dining room for patients who are able to go to the table, besides a number of smaller dining rooms for use of patients as well as nurses and attendants. In the main kitchen and the dietary department, in addition to the supervising dietitians, four cooks and 39 helpers are employed.

All of the third and part of the fourth floors are assigned to general medical cases, in charge of Dr. Joseph Boch, assisted by Dr. Mariano Cajigas and Dr. Sidney E. Eichenholtz. On the fourth floor is the neuropsychiatric ward in charge of Dr. Valentine Ujhely. An occupational therapy department is on the fourth floor with Mrs. Bessie Clark, director.

The surgical department, which includes four completely equipped operating rooms, is on the fifth floor with Dr. F. W. Ogg, chief surgeon, assisted by Dr. William F. Willien, Dr. S. P. Funkhousser, Dr. J. Paul Bailey and Dr. Sidney Eichenholtz. Two of the operating rooms are for general surgery, another is for orthopedic work and the fourth for eye, ear and nose cases.

Tax Commission Provides for Pension Property

October 8, 1937

To Village Clerk:
Dear Sir:

The State Tax Commission issues this letter to emphasize that property purchased with pensions, bonus or insurance money and, therefore, granted a limited and partial exemption under the provisions of paragraph 5 of section 4 of the tax law must be subjected without any exemption to taxes for construction, maintenance and repair of village streets and highways. Said paragraph of the tax law specifically states that property so purchased is taxable on its entire assessed valuation without any exemption so far as highway taxes are concerned. Such property is also liable without exemption to levies for special improvements measured by benefit, front footage, or other means of levy than upon assessed valuation at a uniform tax rate.

Pensioners' property is, of course, liable to all taxes imposed upon the amount by which the assessed valuation exceeds any exemption given. In assessing pensioners' property the assessor should first of all set down in the proper column a figure representing the full value of the property, treating it in the same manner as the property of one not a pensioner. Thereafter, any exemption allowable under the provisions of paragraph 5 of section 4 of the tax law should be set down and a third column of the assessment roll should show the difference, that is, the figure upon which general taxes will be levied. We repeat, however, that the first figure, namely, the assessed valuation before any deduction, is the one upon which street and highway taxes are to be levied.

The Commission issues this letter in an effort to properly enforce the provisions of the tax law. When any property is illegally and improperly permitted to enjoy exemption, the result is a subsidy to certain favored individuals at the expense of the remaining taxpayers whose burdens are thereby increased. In order that the tax paid by any individual may be his fair share and no more, the provisions of law should be carefully followed and pensioners' property subjected to street and highway taxes without the benefit of any exemption.

Very truly yours,
State Tax Commission,

By Daniel R. Spratt,
Deputy Tax Commissioner.

Corning Plaza Theatre Has Modern Sound Equipment

An RCA-Photophone High Fidelity Sound System, in the latest and most advanced contribution of science making moving pictures more realistic and true to life, was installed this week in the Plaza Theatre, Corning. The Plaza, which was the first theatre in Steuben County to install talking pictures, is also the first, not only in this county, but in the entire Southern Tier to install the newly-perfected RCA sound equipment — "Magic Voice of the Screen", as it is now known.

"This theatre is dedicated to the policy of providing our patrons with the finest in entertainment" said Morris L. Gaby, manager of the Plaza, yesterday — "not only that, but the finest in entertainment presented with the aid of the most modern facilities! Accordingly, we have gone to great expense to install this equipment—that our patrons may be better served, that they may have greater satisfaction and greater enjoyment. It will be our future policy that if and when new innovations appear which will improve our showings, these also will be installed".

The Rambler

It is a long way from lullaby land to manhood and womanhood, boyhood and girlhood. And many of us forget the early sacrifices made by Mother in childhood in the rush of our seemingly important affairs. Sunday is Mother's Day. It is a day set aside for special tribute to Mother. It should mean more than flowers, telegrams and pretty cards.

—o—

The Lord has been good in sparing my Mother to me and Mrs. Rambler is now a Mother so that I would like to pay tribute to two of the women who have been great guiding forces in my life. Mother spent anxious nights with me, sacrificed time and social pleasures to educate me and to inculcate in me the principles which she believed would make me a better man in this world.

She taught me of God, of life, of friendship and love and the true meaning of those words. Now she is alone with Dad as they were when they started. Their children are out in the world with their own families. I may get careless at times, but I can never forget all she has meant to me. Mother is a beautiful word and Mother is a beautiful being and may God spare her many more years of love, happiness and good health.

Here is some consolation for the workers over 40 years of age who fear loss of jobs through old age. A Federal census states that 19,552,449 workers over that age are employed. This was based on the last Federal census.

Unusual Ceremony to Mark Republican Rally Saturday Night

Frank Gannett to be principal speaker at G. O. P. conclave in Corning Masonic Cathedral — Newspaper editors and publishers to be guests of honor —Unusual ceremony to be witnessed.

In the Corning Masonic Cathedral, Saturday night, there will be one of the most unusual ceremonies ever witnessed in the state. It will have national significance as press associations and picture organizations have made arrangements to distribute stories and pictures of the event throughout the United States. A similar ceremony will probably never again be witnessed in Steuben county or even in the state.

This will be the highlight of the Republican rally at which Frank E. Gannett, head of the Gannett newspapers, will be honored and at which Chairman J. C. Latham of Canisteo will play host to the 150 members of the Steuben County Republican Committee. Editors and publishers of all Steuben newspapers will be guests of honor. Dinner will be served by the Eastern Star Chapter at 6:15 P. M.

District Attorney George A. King, who will preside at the rally, says that men and women of both political parties are invited to attend the dinner and tickets may be secured at the office of Mr. King as well as the offices of Attorney Clarence H. Brisco, Corning; Attorney Robert E. Cole, Bath; The Times, Canisteo. The dining hall will accommodate 400 and reservations should be made before Saturday.

The musical program during the dinner will be directed by R. S. Brookman with Harry Springer at the electric organ. Several selections will be sung by the Lake Street Presbyterian Church quartet of Elmira. Mr. Springer will give a brief recital beginning promptly at 6:00 P. M.

Speakers will include Mr. Gannett, Congressman W. Sterling Cole, Mr. Latham and Mrs. J. Laning Taylor of Owego. Invited to be present with the delegations are County Chairmen John E. Perry of Ithaca, Charles W. Perry of Elmira, Stephen Lounsberry of Owego, Lawrence Morgan of Watkins Glen.

Representatives of the Steuben press expected to be present are: Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Buisch, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin R. Mott, the Hornell Tribune; W. Allen Underhill, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Kimball, the Corning Leader; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hall, Avoca Herald; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Miller, Addison Advertiser; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Elkins, Bath Courier; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hayes, Corning, The Advertiser; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis E. Knapp, Hornell, The Advertiser; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Moore, Jr., Bath, The Advertiser; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barber, Wayland Register; Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Tripp, Cohocton, Times-Index. Representatives of the press from Elmira will also be present.

At the conclusion of the dinner the dining hall will be opened to the public and all possible will be accommodated for the evening program. This promises to be the most important and unusual rally in Steuben's history and those desiring to participate in the dinner are urged to make their dinner reservations at once. Groups of Republican women in several communities have already arranged to be present.

Addison Nine Loses Opener to Jasper

Addison's entry in the Little Six Baseball League opened its season Sunday with Jasper as the opponent. The locals were on the short end of an 8 to 3 decision. However the officiating was not to the liking of the locals and a protest was filed with league officials with the idea of clearing up the officiating matter early in the season before other trouble develops among umpires.

The members of the local squad are: George Hopper, pitch; Robbins, catch; Russell Wade, first; Dick Willis, second; "Pipe" Heidrick, short; Johnnie Grange, third; "Blaze" Hadlock, left field; Jim Kelly, center field; "Has" Hargrave, right field. The team will be augmented by high school players at the close of the scholastic season.

State Prohibits Tax Extensions By Village

The Addison Village authorities are prohibited from granting any extensions to anyone in the payment of taxes according to a recent communication read at the last board meeting. This means that the state tax department is going to insist on the payment of all village taxes by July 1, the regular due date.

The communication follows:

August 25, 1937

To the Village Clerk:
Dear Sir:

The State Tax Commission is informed that in villages operating under the general village law authorities in certain instances are guilty of a breach of the provisions of the village law as it relates to the time for collection of taxes in that, without statutory authority, they extend time for collection of taxes beyond that specified in section 115 of the General Village Law, namely, July 1.

The provisions of section 115 are specific in stating that to taxes collected after July 1 there shall be added certain penalties. In spite of this provision, however, we find that in certain villages the board of trustees, without authority, permits taxes to be collected without penalty for some time after July 1. This is not proper.

No village authority has power to permit such an extension except that, under the provisions of section 116-a, partial payments of taxes may be permitted and, under the provisions of section 117-a, collection in installments may be permitted. If such partial payments or installment payments have not been arranged in accordance with said sections, penalties must be added after July 1, or if under the provisions of section 115-b villages in which the annual election is held in June have arranged for collection to be made at a different time than during the month of June, penalties must be added at the expiration of the period fixed for collection in such "June villages".

We trust that in future villages will, in accordance with the statute, exact the proper penalties provided in section 115. In the absence of authority granted by the Legislature, villages are without power to permit collection without penalty after expiration of the stated time of collection.

Very truly yours,
State Tax Commission,

Deputy Tax Commissioner

Women Eagerly Await Advertiser Motion Picture Cooking School

"Star in My Kitchen," home-making film, coming to Avon Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 23, 24 and 25.

It's the talk of the town!

Women throughout the community are planning to attend the friendly class for home-makers, the Motion Picture Cooking School, scheduled to open at the Avon Theatre on Monday, May 23 and continue through Wednesday, May 25

A welcome invitation to the wise is sufficient, and the only invitation needed for this novel cooking school is that extended to every woman by The Addison Advertiser. There is no charge to see any of the showings of "Star in My Kitchen".

Because this newspaper stands ready to sponsor all progressive developments, particularly when they affect the homes of the community, it is presenting this motion picture romance of home-making entirely free.

"If I could only see exactly how she mixes and handles her pie-crust". That comment has been heard from beginners and from more experienced cooks at many cooking schools. Craning necks and anxious eyes, trained on the stage from the sides and back of the demonstration hall, have failed to catch all of the important steps in pastry-making and other culinary arts. Only the early birds in the very front row have had a close-up of the stage in the past, and even they couldn't peer directly into the mixing bowl.

Now the wizardry of the camera has solved the problem, making it possible for every person in Avon Theatre to share each fascinating stage of the planning, measuring, blending and baking in practical, up-to-the minute kitchens.

Keeping pace with the baking, roasting and frying, a series of salads and frozen delicacies will parade in and out of the adaptable electric refrigerator, which will reveal its host of possibilities for simplifying labor and marketing, and contributing to good health and good food.

What to do with left-overs? How to take the gloom out of laundry day? How to save time, energy in meal preparation? How to be attractive in spite of the daily rush? How to make the piecrust that men love to eat? How to give first-aid to fallen cakes?

It won't be necessary to ask the questions, for expert home specialists have anticipated these very problems. They know what bothers many an experienced housekeeper, because it is their job to know and to counsel helpfully.

Fun, novelty and entertainment are joined throughout the feature picture, for it is always fair weather when neighborly cooks get together. Homemaking has a universal appeal, and every woman is eager to learn the newest of her craft.

Cooking, romance, modern kitchens and clever actors and actresses do not tell the complete story of this 1938-model cooking school. The picture is a whole laboratory of modern ideas and wise counsel, touching on latest developments in home equipment and accessories, including laundry methods, ways to prepare left-overs, beauty secrets, hints on saving time and labor, and fresh suggestions on how to entertain graciously, as well as how to be thrifty.

It won't be necessary to carry pad and pencil and try to scribble measurements in the darkened theatre, because free recipe sheets, with complete formulas for many of the delicious dishes prepared in this Motion Picture Cooking School will be distributed daily.

Surprises in store for readers of The Addison Advertiser will not be limited to free entertainment and instruction, since there will be daily gifts, many of which will bring pleasure and renewed appreciation of "school days" long after the final graduation on the closing day.

Owego—Mrs. Henry M. Roberts, a former resident of this village, has been elected national president of the D. A. R. She now lives in Annapolis, Md.

—o—

Coudersport—The hospital in this village is in dire financial straits and unless some financial aid is received immediately this village is to be without a hospital.

Bath—The Rev. Fred M. Webber, pastor of the Baptist Church, has resigned to go to Weedsport. He has been active in the Steuben Baptist area.

Stanwick - McCrea Are Teamed Again

Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea continue their march toward the position of the screen's best loved romantic pair in "Internes Can't Take Money," the romance of a poor medical student and a working girl which opens on Sunday at the Avon Theatre.

"Internes Can't Take Money" is the sixth in which McCrea assays a physician's role and about the tenth in which Miss Stanwyck portrays the beauty with the adds against her who gets her man.

The story poses a question in principles around which much of the action is based. As an interne McCrea is unable to accept money from his patients. A grateful gangster, played by Lloyd Nolan, gives him a thousand dollars for saving his life in an emergency operation.

Miss Stanwyck, with whom he is in love, needs that money in order to find her child by a previous marriage who had been taken away from her.

But McCrea's strict adherence to his oath forces him to return the money thus shutting out happiness to himself and the girl whom he loves. A way is found, however, by Nolan, who sets things to right with the aid of the underworld in his own manner.

The hospital and m edical sequences of "Internes Can't Take Money" were made under the supervision of Dr. John T. Toma, chief resident physician of the Hollywood Hospital, who was engaged as technical director for this picture. Alfred Santell, famed for his ability to get the most out of drama, directed "Internes Can't Take Money."

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMS FOR STUDENT NURSE

DANIEL J. COLBERT,
Plaintiff,
vs.
JEROME B. MANLEY AND THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, BEING THE COUNTY OF CATTARAUGUS, IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK,
Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly granted in the above entitled action on the 4th day of April, 1938, and entered in the Steuben County Clerk's office at Bath, New York on the 4th day of April, 1938, I, Hugh A. Varn, the undersigned Referee, in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the Law Offices of Charles L. Crane on the West side of Main Street in the Village of Addison, Steuben County, New York, on the 21st day of May, 1938 at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day the premises described in said judgment as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Village of Addison, County of Steuben and State of New York, known as the James E. Wilson house and lot on the south side of Front Street and on the north side of the Canisteo River, bounded and described as follows: on the north by Front street; on the east by lands formerly owned by Kate Paxton; on the south by lands of the Erie Railroad Company and on the west by village lot supposed to be owned by Charles Root. This said lot contains about 40 square rods of land more or less.

Being the same premises described in a deed to Ray D. Manley and Sarah M. Growers Watching For Bean Beetle

CUT

Growers of string beans, lima beans and field beans are on the look-out for a lace-like network or holes in the leaves of the plants, indicating that the Mexican bean beetle and its spiny grubs are feeding.

This unwelcome migrant from the South has taken permanent residence in the area from Saratoga to Niagara Falls and southward, and is adding to the woes of the gardener by its destructive feeding on all kinds of beans, says Dr. R. W. Leiby of the New York state college of agriculture.

The coppery-colored, black-spotted, Mexican bean beetle is regarded as a black sheep of his family. It belongs to the lady bird group most of whose members are beneficial. The beetles lay their orange-colored eggs in clusters on the under surface of the leaves and these produce lemon-yellow spiny grubs which cause most of the feeding injury.

A non-poisonous insecticide known as three-fourths of one per cent rotenone is advised to check the feeding of the beetle and its grubs. It can be applied as a dust or as a spray, but for a wet spray, use one pound of the finely ground powder containing four per cent of rotenone, mix this in 20 gallons of water, and use it in place of three-fourths of one per cent dusting powder. The best time for the treatment is when severe injury is threatened, usually just after the first crop of eggs hatch and a scattering amount of feeding is observed.

Success comes only when the dust or spray is placed on the lower surface of the leaves where the beetles and grubs do most of their feeding. A second treatment is sometimes necessary when the injury persists or when a new brood of beetles or grubs appear.

Hints to Gardeners

Making the Garden Pay

MOST vegetable gardens are grown to provide fresher, more nourishing food for the family, and to conserve on food bills.

The vegetables raised will be determined to a certain extent by the amount of space available. Experience shows that a garden about 50′ x 50′ will provide a family of five with a good assortment and quantity of fresh vegetables during the summer.

Perhaps the most important vegetables, from point of view of food value and space required, are: Beans, carrots, beets, lettuce, radish, tomatoes, onions, peas and spinach. An abundance of all these can be grown in a 50 x 50 garden. And there will be room for a row or two of flowers. Calendula, zinnia and petunia are perhaps the most satisfactory.

Good-sized, money saving yields of these vegetables can be grown in a garden but half that size. In any case, economize on space and add to garden yield by following these suggestions: Plant two crops of spinach, one in early spring, the other in late summer. Plant Chinese cabbage, carrots, beets and peppers in late summer in space earlier occupied by beans, lettuce, radishes, onions and peas.

Plant lettuce, radish and beet rows on both sides of tomato rows. When tomatoes need the space, those earlier crops will have been pulled and used.

While sweet corn takes up considerable space, many may wish to include it. If so, conserve space by planting radish and lettuce between rows of slower-growing corn. Or grow pole beans (cornfield beans) to climb on the corn stalks.

Where a space greater than 50 x 50 is available, such crops as winter squash, cucumbers, swiss chard, watermelon and cantaloupe may be included.

Short Comment on Current Affairs at Home and Abroad Affecting New York Agriculture

HOLTON V. NOYES

Herd Testing—the Answer to Farm Efficiency

In this great milk industry of ours efficiency is the determining factor in the survival of any particular unit. The efficient dealer will make money when the inefficient one loses and, of course, it is only a matter of time when the inefficient dealer disappears from the picture.

In the production end of the industry efficiency is equally important. There has been much discussion recently as to the cost of producing milk. It is very difficult to arrive at any conclusive figure because there is such a great variation in efficiency of production that scarcely any two farms show the same cost figure.

It seems to me it is right along this line that there is the greatest opportunity for improvement in the industry. Efficiency on the dairy farm means not only efficiency on the part of the men who do the work but also on the part of the animals that produce the milk. In every dairy there is a great difference in the individual productive ability of the cows. In good dairies the average production per year may range around ten thousand pounds of milk per cow and upwards. In poor dairies the range of production probably averages not over five or six thousand pounds, and many individual cows run well below these figures.

Inasmuch as it takes just as much barn room, just as much milking time, just as much effort for feeding and general care, and nearly as much feed, to maintain a poor-producing cow as it does to maintain a high-producing cow, this question of individual efficiency of each cow is extremely important.

Undoubtedly there are enough low-producing unprofitable cows in the dairies of the New York milk shed so that it would be a fair statement to say that practically all of our so-called SURPLUS milk is produced by inefficient cows. In other words, if all of the inefficient cows could be sorted out and disposed of, we should have no surplus problem.

Unfortunately, it is not possible to judge the production of an individual cow without actual figures. Even the very best judges find when they subject their herd to actual figures that their judgment as to the productive qualities of different individual cows is in many cases entirely wrong.

It is amply clear to me, and this is from actual experience in our own herds, that the problem of efficiency on every dairy farm can best and most profitably be solved by what we know as the cow testing association, or dairy herd improvement association. The growth of these associations in recent years, and the great opportunity that is still ahead of them, result from their unerringly sorting out the low-producing cows thus enabling the herd owner eventually to acquire a much higher yearly average than he otherwise might.

Fortunately, the cost of cow testing work is far less than the gain from it. The operation is rather simple. A group of farmers within reasonable distance of one another decide to form a Dairy Herd Improvement Association. They go to the Farm Bureau manager who will always assist them in the enterprise. They cooperatively employ a man who goes around visiting each of the herds once a month. He carefully weighs the production of each cow, tests the milk for butterfat, and tabulates the results as the year goes on.

It has been the experience of producers who join such associations that within five or six months they are able to get a rather accurate idea as to the individual producing ability of every animal in the herd. They will inevitably find that some cows of which they formerly had a high opinion are quite worthless as individual producers. They will also find that some cows of which they did not think so much, are among the highest producers.

These men, who go around doing the work of the Association, also undertake to keep individual feed accounts with each cow and to figure up the difference between the cost of feed and the value of total production at the end of the year. It has been the very general experience of producers who have undertaken this work to find certain animals in their herds which actually did not produce enough to pay for the feed consumed and others which operated at a rather handsome profit. In every case, I think the testimony of such farmers would be that the results they are able to achieve by getting rid of their low-producing animals have much more than paid the cost of the enterprise.

This, in my opinion, is one of the most promising undertakings that has ever been introduced into the dairy industry. It has all been worked out and is clearly understood by every Farm Bureau manager. It is easy to get into. It is not just something which fancy dairymen undertake, but something that is important to every producer in the state, and to the milk industry in general. The use of dairy herd improvement facilities will determine the difference between efficiency on the dairy farm in nearly every case.

In considering the question of whether a farmer can afford to undertake herd-testing, I think the fair statement would be to put it the other way around. I am very much of the opinion that no dairy farmer can afford NOT to undertake it. It is better to milk ten cows at a profit than to milk twenty at a loss. If the milk industry is like every other great industry, sooner or later only the efficient producers will survive and their business will be profitable.

FRUIT, FLOWERS AND GARDEN

Garden Insects
R. W. Leiby

Most gardeners are familiar with those marauding insects, the cutworms, which often lay low the succulent tomato, pepper and cabbage plants at night. They have a wasteful habit of feeding as they gnaw through the stem of a plant and cut it down.

Cutworms hide during the day under clods of soil or in loose soil near the base of the plants on which they have fed the previous night. They may be found there and destroyed.

Damage by cutworms can be almost entirely prevented by scattering a poison bran bait-mixture among newly set plants, or by placing small amounts of the bait near the base of the plants. Since the cutworms do most of their feeding at night, the bait should be scattered about sundown.

To prepare an effective bait, mix thoroughly five pounds of bran with four ounces of paris green and then wet it with a water, molasses and fruit juice mixture. This mixture consists of a pint of cheap molasses, about three quarts of water and the juice of one lemon or an orange. More water may be needed to make the bait moist but it should not be sloppy. This quantity is enough to bait about an acre of plants.

Many gardeners anticipate cutworm damage yearly and are in the habit of scattering the bait mixture after the soil has been prepared and two or three nights before the plants are set. This is one way to poison the cutworms before they cause any injury.

Uncle Ab says that many of the folks who boast of their ancestors have little else to brag about.

What Do You Know About Health?

By FISHER BROWN and NAT FALK

Answers: 1. For saving lives. Trained by the monks of St. Bernard Hospice in the Alps, these dogs have rescued countless travelers and mountain climbers who have lost their way in this treacherous mountain pass. By carrying stimulants strapped on them and by bringing help from the Hospice, they have justly become world-famous.
2. By becoming head of the Board of Health of Boston, Massachusetts in 1798, he campaigned for better sanitary conditions and more health education for the masses.
3. A person whose standing height is short in proportion to his sitting height, owing to shortness of limb.

Addison Knights Outplay Elkland To Win Baseball Opener 6 to 4

The Addison Knights baseball nine opened their season Saturday afternoon with a victory over the Elkland High School varsity squad. The locals won with Thomson winning his own pitching battle when he scored a home run in the third inning. The score was 6 to 4.

Thomson was on the mound for Addison and he held the visitors to four well-scattered hits. The visitors' hits came in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings. The winning pitcher also accounted for three of his team's errors. However in the final inning with two on he managed to maneuver the visitors into short hits and with an assist and strikeout completed the game.

Two games are on tap for the Addisonites during the coming week. Friday afternoon Dundee will be here at 2:30 o'clock. The early time being a concession to Dundee owing to their senior play being Friday night. Dominick, portsider for the Knights, will be on the mound for Addison. Tuesday afternoon the Knights play Corning Free Academy in Corning at 4 o'clock.

Another Numbers Racket

Tragic news pours out of Europe like a string of refugees. The latest is, Hitler fires 8,000 Austrian government workers, while others are lodged in jail or resign by suicide. To swing this new Hitler purge against the patronage industry in the United States would ruin the country. There are approximately 850,000 Federal pay-rollers over here—some 113,000 in Washington alone. Indubitably, the spenders of our money and givers of our jobs are promoting another numbers racket, or they believe that the greater number of salaried workers can do the job better—or, if one man can thread a needle in ten seconds, ten men can thread the same needle in one second.

Firing Squads in Reverse

So much unofficial talk in Washington about a second world war, and speculative thoughts on what tomorrow holds for ruthless dictators. I heard somewhere that the chick swallows the worm, man eats the chick and, in the last roundup, worms devour the man—which reminds us that wars bring dictators, dictators make wars, and and wars destroy dictators. Civilization is waiting for the chariot wheels of immitigable destiny to start making station stops on the return track—for picking up egomaniacal warmakers who perish not so much by act of God as by their own hands. Every hand that waves a swastika has at least one trigger finger, and soon or late, but implacably, firing squads go into reverse.

Bald-Headed Statesmen

Becoming reminiscent as I contemplate the Senate from the gallery, the scene below grotesquely takes on an illusory mirage and becomes the old fishing hole where, as a lad, I sat and—just fished. In those days my favorite equipment, in addition to a liberal supply of worms, included a round bob or float, white on top. The elder statesmen in the Senate, being bare faced on top, always remind me of the bright round bob on my old fishing line, as it dibbed and wiggled over the cooling eddies where the goggle-eyed perch and catfish used to bite.

Apes And Adults

In the house we are privileged to contact picayunish priority in piffles at its source of origin, to hear and see political buffoonery in full crescendo—due to the fact that congressional elections come more often. In the jittery minds of some candidates, election day is almost as ominous in portend as hangman's day. This article does not refer to any House member, specifically, nor to any specific group, but is applicable in a general way only to that lunatic fringe of demagogues of the dim past and flaming now.

If hot air was music, some of the boys on Capitol Hill would rate a brass band each. I spent yesterday afternoon in the House gallery, and this morning visited the Washington Zoo. Antics and gestures of caged simians in the monkey house were so striking in realistic mimicry of yesterday's congressional show that one could almost identify some of the actors by Congressional Districts.

Moreover, there were a few familiar faces!

The Creator's most lamentable error, is the law-making politician. Some of these anthropoid accidents are as compatible with economic serenity as a bushel of Bromo-Seltzer in a bath. Yet we endure them, and pay them fat salaries as lawmakers, while they, in turn, pile on more taxes. Each year we let them take our skins that we may keep our bones. We already have a plethora of idiotic laws, yet the mill never stops.

We have laws for keeping harmless loons in jail, and writs for freeing rich crooks when jailed for the wrong offense.

The Devil Looked Ahead

Paradise marched on without a murmur or a disquieting ripple until Satan became inspired with personal political aspirations, and started his publicity build-up by organizing sit-down strikes and manufacturers' associations. After being duly dropped from membership by the Unions and Businessmen's Clubs, the Devil was called up for deportation. Before being sent away as ambassador to Hades he was told that in consideration for past services one last favor of his asking would be granted.

He asked that man be allowed to make his own laws! In support of the charge that Old Nick knew what he was about, we now have forty-nine mournful exhibits—Congress and forty-eight state legislatures—where programs of vital public interest go in on the hoof and come out hash!

This Week In Sports

By The Grandstander

Del Young, fiery Phillies' infielder broke even in the business world over the winter. He had a fast job as a salesman in a sporting goods store in Cleveland but on Christmas Day his new car got smashed up and the driver of the other car had no insurance.

—o—

Somebody told Russ Bauers, young Pirate ace, that he was too quiet a fellow to go places as a big league ace. Soon as training started Russ began developing color. He burnt his pitching hand at San Bernardino by lighting a whole pack of matches at once. Then on the train bound for St. Louis and the season opening he wrenched his knee twisting around a Pullman seat.

—o—

Speaking of big days, Don Gutteridge, Cardinals' infield sparkplug, harks back to Lincoln in the Nebraska State League for his chief baseball thrill to date. In a game with Sioux Falls he had 6 for 6, including a homer which cleared a fence that hadn't been cleared by batted baseball for 11 years back. Don came up in the ninth with the score 4 to 4 and belted his sixth hit, a two-bagger which knocked home the winning run from first base.

—o—

Fans who like hitting served with their infields predict a big Boston future for Bob Kahle, young Indian pinchhitter with the Bees. Bob played third and hit .306 for Indianapolis last year, including 4 home runs.

—o—

Heinie Manush, Brooklyn's distinguished outfield slugger, is quite a man. On the road he is down to breakfast ahead of the hungriest rookie on the squad, usually eats 4 meals a day, uses the oldest glove in the major leagues and shoots golf in the 70's when there's an off-day.

—o—

In the course of his career as Cub catcher, Ken O'Dea has had his fingers bumped out of place by foul tips only twice. Both times the batter was Medwick. "I didn't expect Joe to swing at either of those pitches," explains Ken.

—o—

The lumber business engrosses the attention of Lew Riggs the year round. His father is an executive of a North Carolina Lumber Company and Lew spends the winter learning the fine points of the business. All summer, of course it's the lumber he swings at home plate for the Reds against National League pitching that interests him most.

—o—

Johnny McCarthy, Giants' limber first-baseman, starts the season like a home run king about to mount the throne. He sounded the keynote as nearly as March 3 in an intracamp game at Baton Rouge where he supplied a home run as the Giants' first hit of any description.

—o—

Part of the weight taken off by Pete Sivess, Phils' Russian pitching aspirant since last year was in the form of a pair of tonsils. Pete had them out last winter in preparation for a big year with the Phils after his fine showing at Baltimore.

CHAPTER CHATTER

A pound sample of the new variety of soy beans which was recently announced by Cornell University, has been received by the local Agricultural Department. This variety has not been named as yet. The Cayuga, which is the recommended variety for this state is a black coated bean and many farmers object to the black coats in the feed. Also its black coat prevents its being widely used in industry. This sample will be tested by the "Ag" boys and the results will be forwarded to the experiment station at Cornell University.

—o—

Congratulations to Mr. Sprague and the members of his department for winning the privilege of going to Jamestown to the state band finals.

—o—

The boys in "Ag" IV have been testing soils on their home farms for lime content this week. A sample of the soil is taken and is mixed with the testing solution which is known as "rich or poor" in a test tube. Soil that is acid will turn the solution red while soil that does not need lime will remain unchanged.

—o—

The "Ag" Department will be glad to test free of charge, the soil for anyone in this school area. The Farm Bureau or Cornell University Agronomy Department will also perform this service.

—o—

The annual spring trip will be taken to Alfred by the members of the "Ag" IV class Friday. This is an annual trip. Stock judging will take place in the morning, while in the afternoon instruction in various phases of agricultural machinery will be given. About 40 schools will be represented.

—o—

Robert Stewart, a member of our F. F. A. was stricken with pneumonia last week and is in the St. James Mercy Hospital, Hornell, at present. Robert had just returned from Arkport, where he worked during the Easter vacation, when he was taken with chills and ordered to the hospital. He is better now and we all hope to see him back in school soon.

—o—

The dance that was held Friday in conjunction with the Commuter's Club was one of the best ever held at the high school. An exceptionally large crowd was present and enjoyed round and square dancing. The Reagan Brothers, who were formerly F. F. A. members, provided music. The members of the high school faculty acted as chaperons.

Steuben Has Large Sign-up

According to word received from the Agricultural Conservation Office today, Steuben County farmers are advised that the sign-up for 1938 program should be completed about May 15.

Only three New York state counties have filed more worksheets than Steuben. The latest report indicates that more than 1100 Steuben farmers have furnished worksheet information that will enable them to participate in the program. This number is expected to double before the closing date.

Because of many recent changes in the program, the Agricultural Conservation Committee anticipates that more farmers will enter the program this year than ever before. This is further made possible this season due to the increased forms of credit available.

It is estimated that payments for carrying out Conservation practices this year will be as much or more than they were in 1937 when approximately $125,000 was distributed to Steuben farmers.

The committee goes further to say that farmers should not accept hearsay reports regarding the 1938 program, but should spend a few minutes with one of the local field supervisors and find out for themselves.

The fact that the closing date for sign-up will end this month is rather significant in that no one will be eligible to apply for payment later on unless a worksheet is on file in the county office. This rule applies to those wishing to carry out fall practices as well as spring practices.

E. C. Smith Buys at Sycamore Ayrshire Sale

Edwin C. Smith of Addison was one of the buyers at the recent Sycamore Farms sale at Douglassville, Pa., in which fifty choice home bred and imported Ayrshires sold for an average of $375 per head, the highest sale average that has been made since 1930.

Mr. Smith secured a two-year-old heifer for $375. The top selling animal of the sale was Redhills Maretta, a very attractive imported cow that brought $850 on the bid of Strathglass Farms, Port Chester, N. Y.

F. W. Fitch Company of Des Moines, Iowa, was the heaviest buyer at the sale, and selected five head for a total of $2,125. The highest priced animal in this group went for $575.

Painted Post Cow High for April—Smith Herd Leads D. H. I. A.

The Southern Steuben Dairy Herd Improvement Association reports 36 dairies tested with 900 cows on test of which 91 were dry during the month of April. A. E. Scudder of Painted Post leads the association with high cow for butterfat from 1572 pounds of milk. Robert Dann of Painted Post has high cow for milk production. This Holstein produced 2118 pounds of milk containing 63.5 pounds of butterfat. There were 17 cows that produced over 60 pounds of butterfat. These cows were in the following herds: Edwin C. Smith (Tuscarora farm) 1, A. H. Olmsted 3, C. A. Drake & Son 1, A. E. Scudder & son 6, Leon Andrews 1, Robert Dann 4, Wilson Bennett 1.

Cows meeting the honor roll requirements of 1200 pounds of milk or 40 pounds of butterfat were as follows: C. A. Stewart & Son 3, J. H. Reynolds 1, Edwin C. Smith (Tuscarora farm) 7, Edwin C. Smith (Goodhue farm) 6, A. H. Olmsted 9, Bert Jimerson 1, William McCarthy 1, C. L. Knox 2, B. Vastbinder 4, M. R. Collins 4, Stuart & Dolly 4, H. B. Toby 2, H. W. Deming 4, R. R. Decker 1, C. A. Drake & Son 9, E. H. Ackerman 2, R. F. Ingersoll 3, Burt F. Smith 1, A. E. Scudder & Son 22, Leon Andrews 11, Robert Dann 38, Earl Wilson 2, Robert H. Andrews 3, Wilson Bennett 17, Frank C. Young & Son 4, G. S. McStay 1, Leon Johnson 3, Lewis Titus 4, Ralph Hand 5.

Robert S. Drake, tester in charge, gives the five high herds based on butterfat production as follows:

	Cows	Fat	Milk
Edwin C. Smith (Tuscarora farm)	13	41.6	1098.0
Burt F. Smith	5	37.5	687.6
C. A. Drake & Son	16	35.2	1046.8
A. H. Olmsted	29	33.6	974.5
H. W. Deming	14	32.3	823.4

Ruggles Heads Cast of Musical Mirthquake

Music and daughter are equal ingredients mixed in liberal proportion in "Turn Off the Moon," Paramount's newest musical comedy hit which begins on Tuesday at the Avon Theatre.

Charlie Ruggles heads the cast of movie and radio stars assembled for this latest 'must' on your movie list. He is aided by Eleanore Whitney, Johnny Downs, Kenny Baker, Phil Harris and his orchestra, Ben Blue, Marjorie Bateson and the Fanchonettes.

The latest Paramount musical mirthquake marks the debut of Fanchon, famous for her Fanchon and Marco stage units, as a full fledged motion picture producer. Under her expert supervision dance director LeRoy Prinz has created a new terpsichorean craze "Jamming" that Hollywood expects to be as popular as the famous Charleston.

"Turn Off the Moon" is an original screen play by Marguerite Roberts, Harlan Ware and Paul Gerald Smith. In a light vein the story kids astrology as a royal aid to romance and an additional headache to Charlie Ruggles' frustrated sweetheart.

Books Presented To AHS Library

Mrs. Alice Breese, librarian in Addison High School, has announced a new list of books recently purchased or given to the library. This includes both grade and high school books. Little Six Baseball Squad Opens Season

The opening games in the Little Six Baseball League were played Sunday afternoon. All games were played according schedule, the one marring event on the league schedule being a protested game between Jasper and Addison. The game was played in Jasper. President Robert Drake of the League has presented the statistics on the activities of the week-end and announces the games for Sunday.

Steuben County Justices Meet May 11 in Bath

A meeting of all the justices of the County of Steuben has been called for May 11 at 6:30 in the evening, to form an organization to be known as the Justice of Peace Association of Steuben County. A roast pork supper will be served in the Methodist parlors in Bath by the Century Builders Class of that church.

James S. Drake, Steuben County Attorney, will speak on the "Duties and Responsibilities of a Justice". Guests will include: Hon. George W. Pratt, Hon. John C. Wheeler, Hon. Edwin S. Brown, Hon. Edwin C. Smith.

According to John L. Brownley, Bath Town Attorney, active in the formation of this association, the purposes are: to provide a forum for the discussion of the various problems which confront justices; to secure qualified lecturers on Justice Court Practice and Law; and to take action on bills pending in the legislature and affecting the office of Justice of the Peace.

It is expected that the association will have its own official bulletin, to be sent out periodically to the members, setting forth the changes of law, pending legislation and other matters of interest to justices.

At this date more than fifty justices have indicated that they will be present at the initial meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hurd and daughters Jean and Lois, and Mrs. Myrtle Hurd were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Park Holden Wednesday evening.

School Board Plans Baccalaureate Service in Addison High School

Mr. Gladstone stated it is time to make plans for commencement week. In his opinion the auditorium is large enough to accommodate the parents, relatives and friends of the graduates and the churches are not large enough, with the result that many are unable to attend the services. Mr. Armstrong stated there are sixty graduates and there will be about 200 relatives alone, and in addition there will be teachers, board members and many others. Mr. Gladstone suggested the church pastor and choir of the church in charge, take charge of the service. Miss Curtis said she could see no objection to the plan. Mr. Miller asked what church is to have it this year and Mr. Gladstone said St. Catherine's Catholic Church.

Letters should be sent out now for commencement speakers in the opinion of Mr. Gladstone and he asked for suggestions as to a speaker. He said that securing a college speaker aided students from Addison who attended that college for it enabled the college teacher to understand the school. No action was taken.

The Bath Chamber of Commerce, which is making elaborate plans for dedication of the Veteran's Hospital there May 12, asked that the school close the afternoon of the dedication and that the school band be permitted to march in Bath. The request was granted. Mr. Armstrong moved to permit the band to go to Jamestown and this was seconded by Trustee Charles Park. The Board will finance the Jamestown trip as they did the trip to Cuba.

Two Underwood typewriters will be traded in for new machines and $30 in cash each. They are three years old. This makes the cost of the machines $10 per year. The new machines are desired for regents time and will be billed on next year's budget money.

Building Repairs

Mr. Miller called the attention of the board members to the needed repairs about the school. He said the inside corridors need painting, the cupola and pillars in front need painting, gutters along the roof need repairing. The building committee will make a survey of the jobs to be done and plan the work so that local people can do as much of the work as possible. This suggestion was made by Mr. Park. Repairs to the heating system will be made by an outside company, if found necessary.

New Orchestra Instruments

The $200 appropriation for next year for the orchestra will be expended for two base viols, a bassoon, two cellos and four violas. The sum of $231 for these instruments of which the Amici Musicae, music organization in the school, will pay $31. This will enable students to begin work on these instruments this year in preparation for next year.

Students Censured

There was considerable discussion over students marking walls in the halls and toilets. It was suggested that the janitors make daily surveys in these halls and corridors and immediately remove marks, for if one mark is on a wall students have a tendency to put others with it. Drastic action was recommended for students caught defacing the walls.

The lunch hour of the janitors will be staggered so that one will be in the building throughout the entire noon hour.

Those present were: President Maurice E. Miller, trustees, Harry Laffkas, Clark Baxter, A. B. Ackerson, Kenneth Armstrong, Charles Park, John Russ, Mrs. Susan Perry and Miss Fannie Curtis.

Frank H. Smith Elected Head of M. E. Brotherhood

Over 600 men gathered at the Methodist Brotherhood reunion held in Canisteo Monday night. Addison was honored by the election of Frank H. Smith of this village as president. The men at the meeting came from many of the Methodist Churches in the Hornell District. The principal speaker was the Rt. Rev. Adna W. Leonard, Bishop of Pittsburgh. This meeting was in preparation for a western New York Brotherhood meeting which is to be held in Buffalo.

Mr. Smith has long been active in the Addison Methodist Church and in the Hornell District affairs. He takes the place made vacant through the retirement of Adelbert Stewart of Canisteo who becomes song leader of the group. Many other speakers, prominent in the Hornell Methodist district were on the program.

The men from Addison who attended under the direction of the Rev. Garland G. Lacey were: Mr. Smith, Wilbur Bulkley, George and Richard Dininny, Guy Ricker, Roy Omelion, Earl Smith, Bert Rouse and Roy Bulkley, and Harold Widger of Rathbone.

ORTHOPEDIC CLINIC

A consultation orthopedic clinic will be held May 9 in Addison High School from 9:30 A. M. to 3 P. M. The clinic will be in charge of Dr. C. M. Allaben the State Orthopedic Surgeon, assisted by the Orthopedic Nurse of the district Eludieth M. Carron.
